

STRANGE INTIMACY

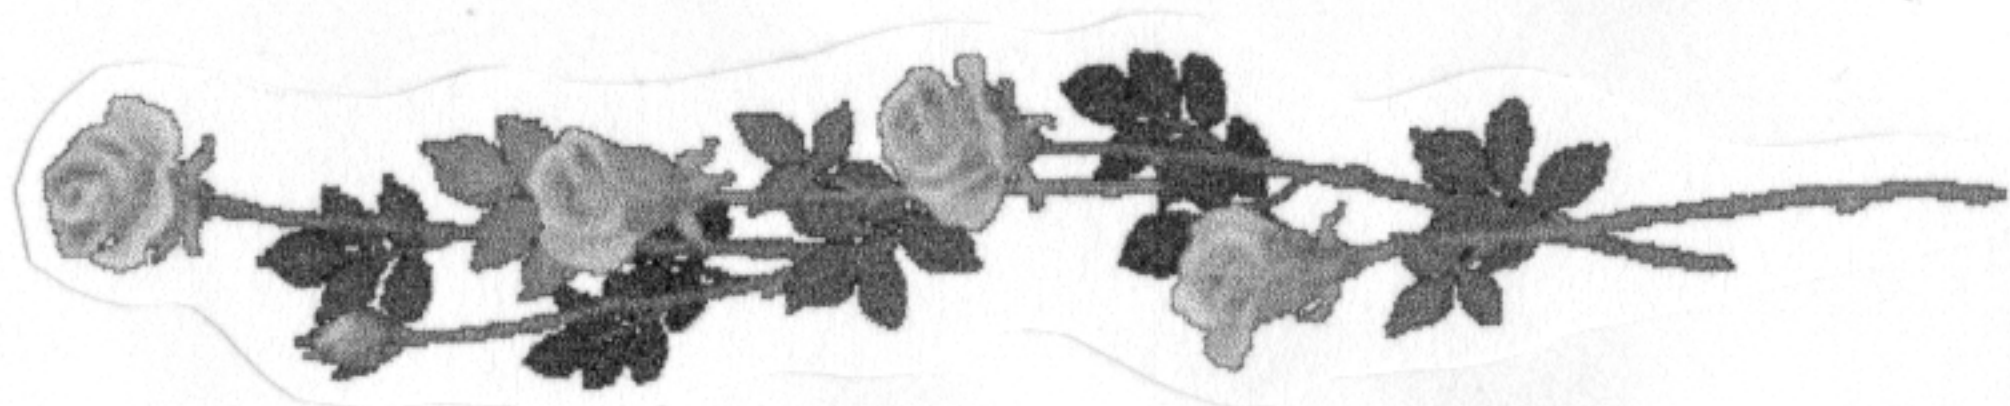

NONE UNBECOMING

25 FEB 2021

i want to get my intimate social needs met with no commitment

if it goes bad i can leave without having to sever emotional ties,
without risking financial, material, social security that usually depends on others

if theyre a stranger i dont have to know the bad things they've done or believe if they think i'm something i'm not it doesn't matter because i'm not attached to or dependent on them

i don't have to do conflict resolution to maintain a relationship i care about, if a problem comes up i can just leave

i don't have to risk anything or have my expectations disappointed with a stranger that doesn't play any particular role in my life

I WANNA BE INTIMATE WITH A STRANGER

AND NEVER SEE THEM AGAIN

intimacy with strangers means no expectations or disappointments or risking my long-term security.

if they hurt me it doesn't really matter in the grand scheme of things, it doesn't feel like much compared to someone i know and love and care about hurting me.

and if i leave after the first time they can't do it again, and leaving is so much easier with strangers.

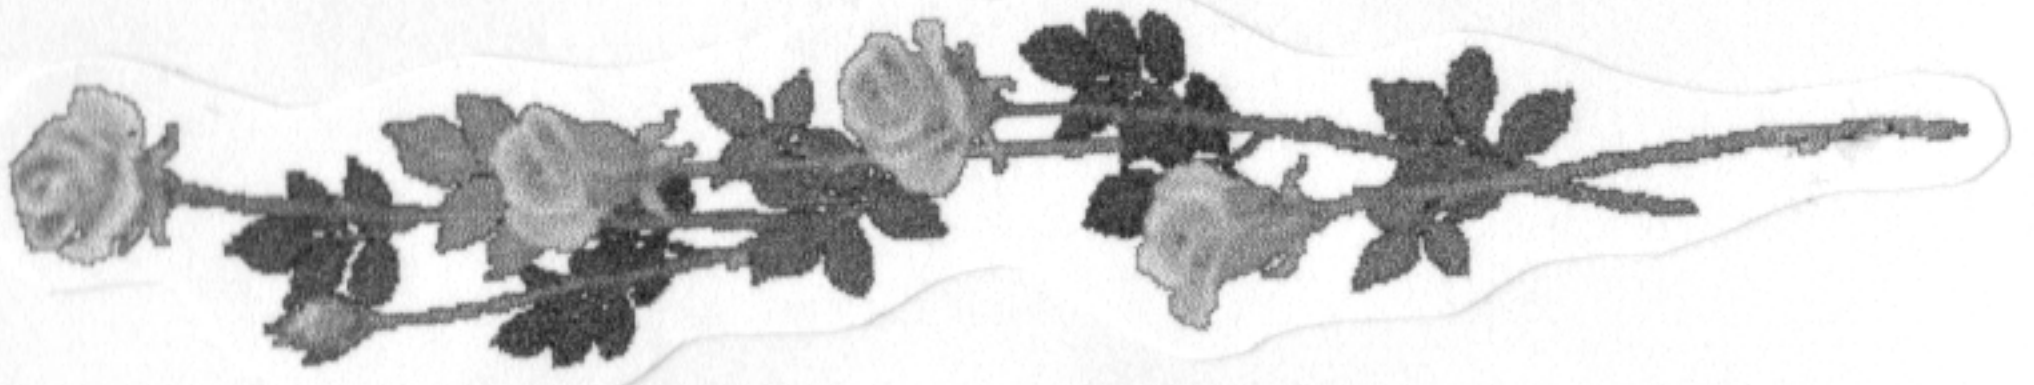

(relative) low-risk for potential reward?

i think i'm supposed to be more comfortable sharing things with people i know and have a mutual caring and loving relationship with but when i rely on that type of person to survive because i can't make my own money or drive my own car or work my own jobs, why risk it?

especially when conflict has, for most of my life, only made things traumatically worse for me especially in close relationships, eventually leading to the relationship ending, or my survival necessities being taken away while i'm still there.

i want strange intimacy.

